

Relationship Development Intervention® Helping Build Connections within Families

Have you ever wondered if there is a way to help your child build relationships with others?

Have you heard of Relationship Development Intervention® (RDI®) and wondered what it is and how it works?

Join us for this informational presentation on RDI® - a home-based, parent-led program in which parents learn to interact and communicate with their child in ways to help remediate relational difficulties caused by autism and similar neurodevelopmental disorders. You will learn how an RDI® consultant helps you think about breakdowns in the guiding relationship, and get some hands-on experience with practical strategies to use at home to build connection with your child.

If you are interested in attending, or would like more information, contact Deb Berrang, RDI® Program Certified Consultant at 414-510-7523, or Jennifer Lemke-Pawlak, RDI® Consultant-in-Training at 414-708-6976.

What: Informational presentation on Relationship Development Intervention® Program

When: Thursday, August 17, 2017

Where: 2995 S. Delaware Ave. Milwaukee WI 53207

Time: 6:00-8:00 pm

Who: Parents of children affected by neurodevelopmental disorders [Such as autism spectrum disorder (ASD), Reactive Attachment Disorder (RAD), Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD/ADHD), etc.]

Cost: $5

Registration Required

Please register by visiting <http://remediatingautism.com/events/> Space is limited. Please register early.

Handouts and light refreshments provided. Child care is not provided.